HSBC Malta Foundation brings environmental awareness to middle schools with Djamanto'

HSBC Malta Foundation is proud to announce its support for Djamanto', an engaging and thought-provoking play that will be performed in middle schools across Malta in October and November. This initiative reflects the Foundation's commitment to environmental education and its aim to inspire a greater sense of responsibility and awareness among younger generations.

Djamanto' tells the story of one individual's journey towards an awakening, highlighting the deep connection between humanity and the natural world. The narrative focuses on how our actions, both big and small, impact the environment and emphasises the importance of reflection, awareness, and hope through being creative to get better results. Through its powerful message, the play invites audiences to envision a healthier and more beautiful future where sustainability is at the forefront of human decisions.

The play will be staged at various educational institutions, including St Margaret College Cospicua Middle School, St Nicholas College Rabat Middle School, and St Thomas More College Tarxien Middle School, among others. The HSBC Malta Foundation aims to reach hundreds of students across the island, encouraging them to engage with themes of sustainability, environmental stewardship, and social responsibility through the art of storytelling.

"At HSBC Malta Foundation, we believe that engaging young minds through creative and educational projects like Djamanto' is crucial to fostering a culture of sustainability from an early age," said Geoffrey Fichte CEO at HSBC Bank Malta. "We are committed to supporting initiatives that not only educate but also inspire future generations to take action and be proactive in caring for our planet."

The support for Djamanto' is part of HSBC Malta Foundation's broader efforts to champion initiatives that contribute to community development, financial literacy, and environmental sustainability. By backing projects like this, the Foundation hopes to continue making a meaningful impact in the lives of Maltese youth and to promote the importance of environmental consciousness as a core value in schools across the nation.
