HSBC Malta Foundation supports Dr Klown's new cabin at Mater Dei Hospital

The HSBC Malta Foundation has provided financial support for the construction of a new cabin for Dr Klown at Mater Dei Hospital, reinforcing its long-standing commitment to the organisation, which it has been supporting for over a decade.

The new space serves as a dedicated area for Dr Klown volunteers, allowing them to prepare for their visits and store their attire and props. The project embodies Dr Klown's ethos of bringing joy and laughter to children undergoing medical treatment. The cabin's design features playful elements and vibrant colours that reflect the spirit of the organisation and its mission to provide comfort through humour.

Dr Klown is a non-profit organisation that has been active in Malta since 2010, offering professional clown doctor visits to children in hospital. Through their work, the volunteers help alleviate anxiety and create a positive environment for young patients and their families.

Eric Muscat, speaking on behalf of Dr Klown, said: "This new cabin is an essential addition to our work at Mater Dei, giving our volunteers a much-needed space to prepare before engaging with children. We are deeply grateful to the HSBC Malta Foundation for their unwavering support over the years and for helping to make this project possible."

Glenn Bugeja, speaking on behalf of the HSBC Malta Foundation, said: "Dr Klown has been making a meaningful impact on children's hospital experiences for many years. The HSBC Malta Foundation is proud to have supported this initiative and to continue our decade-long partnership with Dr Klown, ensuring that young patients receive moments of joy even in difficult times."
